Students acquire skills of analysis, argumentation and dialogue, allowing them to pinpoint solutions to ethical, social and political problems.
Course Work

Each course in the MAAPE program contributes to the development of skills of argumentation, analysis, dialogue and theoretical knowledge in real-life situations. Students must also select a specific group of classes oriented toward their career goals in a discipline other than philosophy. Students may choose between a non-thesis track (33 hours) or a thesis track (30 hours). The thesis track is designed especially for those who plan to advance to doctoral studies. Students who choose the thesis track will write a thesis under the supervision of a member of the graduate faculty in the Philosophy Department. All MAAPE students can enroll concurrently in a six-hour program leading to a graduate certificate in professional ethics.

Why choose Texas State?

Dialogue, essential to any practical application of philosophy, is at the heart of the MAAPE program. Students apply theory by participating in the Department of Philosophy’s Dialogue Series. The series includes student and faculty presenters from all eight colleges on campus, as well as speakers from off campus.

MAAPE students participate in regional and national Ethics Bowl competitions, the Philosophy Symposium, the International Research Conference for Graduate Students and the Phi Sigma Tau Honor Society.
Department Mission

The mission of the Department of Philosophy is to:

» preserve, increase and transmit knowledge of the discipline of philosophy and its applications
» foster critical and moral thinking skills
» support excellence in faculty research and creative activity
» promote public dialogue on matters of significance throughout the university and community

All graduates will be highly trained in critical analysis, independent thought and ethical inquiry. MAAPE students will have the ability to apply philosophical frameworks to real-world situations and to engage in productive, theoretically-informed dialogue in professional and community settings of their choice.
Faculty
The expertise of the graduate faculty encompasses key areas of applied philosophy and ethics, including philosophy of technology, biomedical ethics, Latin American philosophy, environmental ethics, religious studies, social and political philosophy, philosophy of law and gender studies. Faculty are committed to cultivating sustained, innovative research projects, forging interdisciplinary ties and mentoring MAAPE students. Faculty present their research at national and international conferences and publish books, book chapters and peer-reviewed journal articles in top venues in their field.

Career Options
Graduates of the MAAPE program are qualified for teaching positions in community college settings and may choose to pursue advanced studies in philosophy or related fields. In addition, graduates have taken positions in academic advisement, legal services, international educational outreach, child protective services and a variety of community organizations.
Important Deadlines*

Admissions
Priority Fall: March 1
Fall: June 15
Spring: October 15
Summer: April 15
Summer midterm: June 1

Applications will continue to be considered on a space-available basis after the deadline.

Funding: Scholarships, Fellowships and Assistantships
Applications must be complete by the priority deadline to be considered for funding.

How to Apply
For information regarding admission requirements and submission instructions, please visit:
gradcollege.txstate.edu/apply

*International applicants can view specific deadlines and requirements at: gradcollege.txstate.edu/international

For information on deadlines, admission requirements and funding, visit:
gradcollege.txstate.edu/programs/maape
The MAAPE program has played a pivotal role in the development of my critical reasoning, writing and communication skills. The stimulating classes have provided invaluable exposure to complex, well-reasoned and sometimes conflicting perspectives which have influenced the person I’ve become and the person I strive to be.

– Quique Montemayor, current MAAPE student at Texas State University

Department of Philosophy
601 University Dr.
San Marcos, TX 78666-4684
512.245.2285 | MAAPE.admissions@txstate.edu

Join the Grad College Community facebook.com/TXSTGradCollege twitter.com/TXSTGradCollege