This program concentrates on the teacher as leader within the classroom, school and district.
Texas State University, to the extent not in conflict with federal or state law, prohibits discrimination or harassment on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, religion, disability, veterans’ status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression.

Course Work

The master of arts (M.A.) in educational leadership with concentration in instructional leadership is a 36-credit-hour program with 24 core hours (including six hours focused on instructional leadership in practice) and 12 hours in a minor. Designed for teachers who want to develop leadership skills and become involved in school leadership activities, courses focus on instructional supervision, instructional design, curriculum development, leadership and action research. Individually selected cognate courses are available in a wide range of content areas including bilingual education, STEM, literacy development, science, mathematics and technology, allowing students to personalize the program to their interests and career goals.

Why choose Texas State?

With an explicit focus on cultural responsiveness and equity-oriented practices for the diverse classrooms of Texas, teachers completing the program will enhance their own teaching within the classroom, develop skills for assisting other teachers and learn how to become part of collaborative efforts aimed at school/district-wide instructional improvement.

Students can expect classes and course work that invite provocation and debate, collaborative work and individual reflection, as well as the grounding of activities in real-world settings.
Department Mission

The education and community leadership program is committed to developing leaders who understand how to build and nurture healthy schools and communities. The program believes the practice of leadership must be ethically grounded, committed to equity and informed by research and demonstrates a strong commitment to this philosophy through a broad-based rigorous curriculum, strong and relevant instruction and meaningful feedback to students. Effective leadership development begins with an understanding of self and progresses outward toward a critical consciousness of the interconnected relationship among people, organizations, communities, policies and practices.

Related Programs

» Principal Certification
» Superintendent Certification
» Ph.D. in School Improvement
Faculty
Faculty members are experienced public school teachers and administrators. This practical background enables the professors to demonstrate to students the manner by which ideas, techniques and policy studies may be applied in a school setting. The faculty is actively engaged in professional organizations at state and national levels. They also serve as consultants to numerous school districts in personnel searches, facility studies, curriculum projects, staff development and professional organization accreditation studies.

Career Options
The M.A. in educational leadership with a concentration in instructional leadership prepares educators to lead instructional improvement efforts. Graduates of this program work in a variety of positions, including instructional coach, curriculum specialist, master teacher, professional developer, mentor teacher, school improvement facilitator, department chair, team leader and instructional technology specialist.
Important Deadlines*

Admissions
Priority Fall: February 1
Fall: August 1
Spring: No admission
Summer: May 1
Applications will continue to be considered on a space-available basis after the deadline.

Funding: Scholarships, Fellowships and Assistantships
Applications must be complete by the priority deadline to be considered for certain types of funding.

How to Apply
For information regarding admission requirements and submission instructions, please visit:
gradcollege.txstate.edu/apply

*International applicants can view specific deadlines and requirements at: gradcollege.txstate.edu/international

For the most up-to-date information on deadlines, admission requirements and funding, visit:
gradcollege.txstate.edu/programs/ed-leadership

Brochure Information Current as of August 2018
Getting my M.A. in instructional leadership from Texas State was pivotal to my career. The program shifted my thinking and created new lenses through which to view my work.

– Dr. Lyn Crowell, Math Specialist and Curriculum Developer

Department of Counseling, Leadership, Adult Education and School Psychology
601 University Dr.
San Marcos, TX 78666-4684
512.245.9909 | edcl@txstate.edu

Join the Grad College Community facebook.com/TXSTGradCollege twitter.com/TXSTGradCollege